"The dedication of three state-of-the art facilities was a great source of pride for all of us at Stennis Space Center in that it marked the continued, steady growth of our unique multi-agency center," said Center Operations and Support Director Bill Parsons, who was also recently named Stennis Space Center director (effective Aug. 25).

Stennis Space Center was not the only center for activity in the county on Monday. Stennis International Airport in Kiln was a hubbub of activity as charter jets flew in VIP's to attend the festivities at the center. Governor Ronnie Musgrove, Senator Trent Lott, NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe, Roy Estess and Lockheed Martin executives were among those who flew into Stennis.

On Monday afternoon, about seven private jets stood on the ramp, boosting gallons, said Phillip's Aviation owner Gene Phillips.

One military plane canceled it's flight due to weather, said Airport Manager Bill Cotter.

"The airport exists as a support to Stennis Space Center," Cotter said. "Flying here is a much simpler solution than flying to New Orleans or Gulfport for busy executives, who would lose hours getting from either of those airports." Cotter said the new ILS System, which has been delayed several times, should have all the kinks worked out soon.

"This will allow even fuel sales to about 1,500 more traffic at the airport, Cotter said.

Meanwhile, the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is actively pursuing businesses to locate at Stennis. Cotter said on Monday that the airport is in the final cut for a location of several business looking for a new home. In these types of negotiations, the names and nature of business are kept confidential until the process is further along, he said.

Businesses representing the area of air cargo, and aviation support have been mentioned in the past as possibilities for relocation to Stennis.

License checks reveal some 40 violations

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS Publisher Emeritus

Hancock County sheriff's deputies conducted a drivers license check last weekend which resulted in the issuance of some 40 citations for violations, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

The license checks are the result of a DUI grant received by the Sheriff's Office that requires the department to make the checks periodically, Garber

The detail, led by Lt. Ray Billeaud, involved some 17 officers, full-time and reserves.

Billeaud said, "The license check included 40 violations. We arrested four for DUI and four for suspended licenses because of DUIs. The others were citations for an assortment of other violations."

Billeaud said the DUI grant is issued through the Department of Public Safety, which gives officers an opportunity to check drivers licenses, proper insurance, equipment, etc.

The license checks will continue to be held periodically throughout the county, Garber reported.

East Hancock's Ramseyer is Administrator of the Year for Fifth Congressional District

BY SHANNON JENKINS Staff Writer

Although she did not receive a shiny, gold star for her accomplishment, one Hancock County elementary principal is quite content with the title of Alternate Administrator of the Year.

The Mississippi Teacher Center selected Cheryl Ramseyer, the East Hancock Elementary School principal, as the alternate after she was named the Administrator of the Year for the 5th Congressional District in June 2002.

"I think this is an honor for myself, the school district and the teachers at East Hancock," said the Diamondhead resident. "We're all a team here."

Ramseyer, who has been the principal since the school opened in 1999, said she and the staff have devoted themselves to increasing the reading levels and improving the writing skills of their students.

"We are working toward the success of every child," she said.

It is through this team effort that Ramseyer and the staff have implemented Elementary.

Power Hour, which regroups children based on reading needs and is designed to transform weaknesses into strengths. Ramseyer said the program represents a second hour of reading in addition to the standard hour of reading.

Interactive Writing is a "Discipline With Dignity" by research-based program Richard Curwin, which they have implemented that helped them develop a theme of respect in the school.

> "We want students to focus on respect for themselves, others and the school," Ramseyer said. "We want them to take ownership for their behavior."

It is because of these programs and Ramseyer's efforts that Hancock County Superintendent Education Mike Ladner nominated her for the 2002

Administrator of the Year. "I nominated her because she has created a positive atmosphere for students to learn and has made the parents feel welcome in the school," Ladner said. "She's been very innovative and progressive, and I believed she needed recognition."

Ramseyer said the nomination was also recognition for the entire staff as well.

"Part of what inspires me are the teachers in this district who are so enthusiastic in making a difference for the children," she said. As for being the Alternate 2002 Administrator of the Year, Ramseyer said it inspires her to "keep learning and trying to make a difference." Ramseyer has been making a difference for 22 years in the education field. The Chicago native spent several years as both a principal and assistant principal for an elementary and middle school in California. She also served as a math coach for Middle School Reform the California Department of Education.

Some might consider 22 years in education a hard job, but Ramsever doesn't think of it that way.

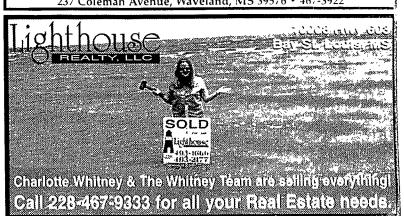

"I don't think of this as a job," she said, "but as a commitment to children."

Saddle up for the Hancock County Fair/Livestock Show

here is a wide variety of activities on schedule for the 2002 Hancock County Livestock Show and Fair which started yesterday.

The annual event runs through Saturday. Some of today's events include: 9:30 a.m., Nickel in the Haystack, 8-year-olds and under; 9:45 a.m., Pet Show, any pet not judged in poultry, rabbits, beef, horses and swine contests; 11 a.m., Beef Cook-off Contest; noon, Helicopter Rides, $20 per person; 5:30 p.m., Goat Show; 5:45 p.m., Dairy Heifer; and 6 p.m., Beef Show.

Some of the events on Friday are: 10 a.m. Judging of Poultry, Rabbits Arts and Crafts, Jellies, Jams, Homemade Exhibits and Miscellaneous; 11 a.m. Judging of Best Booth; 5 p.m., Music by Little Danny Necaise; 5:30 p.m., Catfish Plates; 6:30 p.m., Talent Contest; and 8 p.m., Music by Little Danny Necaise.

Saturday's final day is to include: 8 a.m. Working Stock Dog Show; 9 a.m., Helicopter Rides; 11 a.m., Mule Pulling; 12:30 p.m., release all livestock and exhibits; 2:15 p.m., Goat Tying Contests (youths only); 2:30 p.m., Team Roping, youth and adult division; and 8 p.m., Bull Riding and Barrel Racing.

Those are some of the many events taking place today, Friday and Saturday.

Many have worked many hours in preparation for the Livestock Show and Fair and it is hoped many of us 'city folks' will be out and see the talents of many of our county residents.

The Hancock County event will be taking place at the New Multi-Purpose Arena on the Kiln-Dedeaux Road across from the new school. Traveling north on Highway 603, take a right at the Kiln signal light and keep going for several miles.

I hope to see you at the Hancock County Livestock Show and Fair.

Another item you do not want to forget is the annual Hancock County Pearl River Community College Alumni Chapter's seafood dinner benefit Friday from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road.

Frank Ladner, president of the local group, reports that all proceeds from the fish fry will go towards several scholarships for deserving Hancock County graduating seniors.

Frank Ladner and several others, including J. Larry Ladner who is vice-president of the local alumni group, wants to have a big showing from alumni and friends of PRCC at the fish fry benefit.

The dinners are for a donation of $5 each, and tickets will be available at the door. Take-outs will be available, too.

Media did the right thing in police brawl stories

To the Editor:

In the Sea Coast Echo articles about the Waveland policemen's brawl, concerns were expressed of too much media and the type of warrants issued.

I don't have anything against police officers, some of my own family have been in law enforcement.

The yearly and/or weekend fights that occur at the Brass did not involve police officers, so there is no reason for it to be of interest to the media.

Police officers set examples for the police department and the city they live in and represent.

Chief Varnell is right when telling his officers to stay away from certain establishments. But they should listen to those warnings. They should act as professionals and stay away from establishments they were forewarned about.

He states an internal investigation is being conducted. By whom? It is a conflict of interest if he is investigating his own department.

The judges are only doing their jobs. The same bond was given to all individuals, and everyone makes it sound as though the officers were singled out.

He quotes that if the officers were on duty inside or outside the city limits when the incident occurred, that would be a different story.

duty, and therefore they are subject to being treated the same as regular citizens. Fighting wouldn't make it right if they were on duty

But the officers were off regardless of where they were. This could then be police brutality charges. This type of behavior has brought back remarks of an old saying that Waveland once had when people visit-They expressed that when they visited Waveland on vacation, they left on probation, and I thought we were successful in getting rid of these bad remarks. Had the group of officers stayed away from this establishment this may not have happened. Why were they there? Could they have made a better choice?

If all of these people were to blame, then all will and should be handled accordingly. Just because policemen are involved it doesn't give them the right to do something an ordinary citizen would be arrested for.

And yes, our local newspaper needs to let the public know what is happening in our area.

The decision to provide $31.5 million for infrastructure, site development, job training and recruitment was a good one. It sends a signal that our dedication to homegrown industry is strong. The CDCranked Mississippi 46th worst in the nation in average annual deaths related to smoking in the 1990-1994 period and said smoking shortened the expectancy Mississippians on an average of 14.5 years.

The National Youth Tobacco Survey for 2000 showed cigarette smoking among Mississippi youth was significantly higher than the national average. In grades 6-8, the survey showed 17.8 per cent of 1860s, decided in 1990 to young people were smoking sell their Vicksburg hospital as opposed to 11 per cent and devote most of the pronationally. Courtney, the program manager of the Mississippi Health Advocacy Program, a non-profit public interest group, contends that the "best remedy" to curb youth smoking here, and at the same time provide adequate funding for the state's health care delivery system, is to increase the cigarette

"Medicaid is the largest delivery system in this state and obviously from all the information available, it is plagued with instability," Courtney declared.

"The refrain we hear from the state Capitol indicates that lawmakers will allow cuts to be made in eligibility, services or reimbursement under the Medicaid program rather than explore ways of providing revenue to adequately fund the program," he

Raising the cigarette tax Control and Prevention's to 50 cents a pack, Courtney said, "is estimated to proin Mississippi projects that duce an additional $124.9 million, which would ultimately benefit the state by $344.1 million in long-term health savings."

The Mississippi Health Advocacy Program which is championing the tobacco tax increase to support Medicaid is no bunch of starry-eyed idealists who just popped up on the screen.

Culinary Arts grads change careers

THE SEA COAST ECHO

A few years ago, Joe Randolph and Thomas Barrett were looking for a career change.

They weren't entirely sure what they wanted to do, but they both knew they loved to cook.

So they turned to the Culinary Arts Academy (CAA) at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Wednesday night Randolph, a shipyard welder from Ocean Springs, and Barrett, an accountant from Biloxi, graduated from the CAA with 12 other culinary arts graduates during ceremonies at the Gulf Park campus in Long Beach.

Bay eyes historic preservation ordinance

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER Staff Writer

A workshop at the Bay St. Louis city Hall at 5:30 Monday night could finalize plans for a city preservation ordinance that's been in the works for the past five years. Council members will meet with attorneys and members of a preservation board to try to fine tune plans. The meeting is open to the public but will not be held in the forum of a public Preservation board chairman Charles Gray said the proposed ordinance relies heavily on specific details from a Natchez preservation law which, he said is a "model ordinance."

"What we want everyone to know is that this ordinance is written from a homeowner's point of view," said Gray. "The ordinance will be used for the protection of not the intrusion into their rights. This is not big brother looking over your shoulder. Rather it is designed to prevent large intrusions such as a skyscraper going into next to your house.'

"The ordinance would not give the preservation named as spokespersons.

board any right to direct any property owner to make changes to his property." said Gray. "It's function is only activated when the property owner request, dures, a permit to build, rebuild, make and addition or demolish a building that is listed in the National register of Historic Places."

The City of Bay St. Louis has 576 properties on the National Register and falls third in the state only behind Jackson Natchez in listings. In other business:

Members of the Rebos Club appeared at the meeting to ask the city for help to keep from losing their meeting place on Third St. in Bay St. Louis. The building was purchased from the city by Rebos in 1987 for the intent purpose of being a permanent meeting place for rehabilitation groups, she said. Now that the property is close to paid for, the group finds themselves facing eviction by what is essentially their own protective agency.

The visit includes briefings with public and private sector leadership to learn more about Dr. Hudson's thoughts for USM Gulf Coast and to give feedback on the needs of area business and industry.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Submitted by Craig Foster Edward Jones Co.

Take realistic view of investment returns

Investing in the 1990s was fun; wasn't it? All those double-digit gains in the stock market, year after year, were certainly nice. But they weren't typical—and that's important to remember as you invest today.

Unfortunately, some investors may still be burdened with unrealistic expectations, thanks to the "go-go" decade that's now gone.

That's too bad, because if you always expect returns of 16 percent a year, you'll never be satisfied with the 7 percent or 8 percent that have historically been more normal.

So, how do you avoid playing the "Great Expectations" game? Here are a few suggestions:

• Set goals, not targets. You can easily get frustrated by setting "targets" for the rate of return you want from your investments.

On the other hand, you do need to set long-term financial goals for yourself. You may decide you want to retire at age 55, pay for your children's college education or buy a vacation home in

Once you've established these goals, you can then estimate how much money you'll need to pay for them. At that point, you can determine the appropriate investment strategy for accumulating the money you're going to need.

By establishing realistic goals and creating a systematic strategy for achieving them; you'll be more likely to overlook short-term price fluctuations and stay focused on the long-term objective.

• Hold on to high-quality stocks. By expecting a very high level of return each year from your stocks, you're setting yourself up for disappointment — and you'll also be more likely to make some bad investment decisions. Here's how:

If you're dissatisfied with your stocks' performance, you may end up constantly juggling your portfolio in an effort to boost your returns.

This type of hyperactive trading is usually ineffective – and it can be expensive, too, once you start racking up heavy commissions

So, instead of perpetually buying and selling stocks in an effort to increase your return, look for high-quality stocks, and hold them for the long term. Most good stocks will still have their ups and downs, but if they represent good companies with good products and strong management, they should reward you over • Diversify your investments. If you expect high returns from your stocks, you're going to be rewarded in some years and disappointed in others.

It's true that, over time, stocks have historically outperformed other asset classes, such as bonds and U.S. Treasury securities. And yet, during any given year, stocks can perform poorly, while bonds and treasuries are showing good returns.

That's why it's essential that you diversify your investment dollars among a broad range of assets – growth stocks, international stocks, growth-and-income stocks, bonds, Treasuries, certificates of deposit, etc.

By diversifying your portfolio, you can help cushion yourself against downturns affecting just one type of asset – while giving yourself more opportunities to suc-

In most walks of life, it's good to be optimistic. And it's that way in the investment world, too – as long as you temper your optimism with a healthy dose of real-

Talk yourself into learning good listening skills

There may be some truth in an old Greek proverb about humans having two ears and one mouth, because they should listen twice as much as they talk.

While most people think they are born with the ability, listening actually is a learned trait, says Marion Couvillion of Mississippi State University.

Because good listening skills are valuable in establishing good relationships and improving communication, Couvillion maintains that anyone willing to devote some time and commitment can become an effective listener.

Among leading impediments to effective listening:

- The tendency to focus more on what you'll say next rather than on what the speaker is saying and

- Allowing television, radio and other distractions to interfere with the twoway communication process.

A good listener must make a conscious effort to concentrate on what is being said and, whenever possible, to eliminate any intrusions," she observes.

To become a more active listener, Couvillion recommends a mental checklist of three questions:

- Who is talking to me? It's important to determine your relationship with the speaker - acquaintances and co-workers have different relationships than a spouse.

- What is actually being said? To make certain you understand what is being communicated, try paraphrasing the speaker's remarks and asking followup questions.

Porch life

Sitting around on the front porch at the Neshoba County Fair is all about family, friends, food and politics. Get in line at the supper table and load up with baked beans, potato salad, greens, peas, ham, fried chicken, sausage and too many others to find a place for on your plate. And ooh, that wonderful, hot, right out of the oven, country cornbread. Where's the butter? And don't forget the iced tea! Finish eating and vist with friends and neighbors down the wood chip covered dirt street. That's the heart and soul of the Neshoba County Fair.

Cabins

There are 600 individually owned cabins on the grounds of the Neshoba County Fair which bills itself as Mississippi's Giant Houseparty. The older, original, most desirable cabins are located on or near the main pavilion, know as Founder's Square. Some cabins have been in the same family for generations and many family reunions are held during the eight-day fair. Harness and running horse races have been held since 1894. The original purpose of the fair was to encourage local farmers to raise better crops and farm animals. It has since grown into a tradition for all statewide political candidates to make an appearance here. Presidential candidate Ronald Reagan spoke in 1980, astronaut John Glenn in 1983 and Michael Dukakis in 1988.

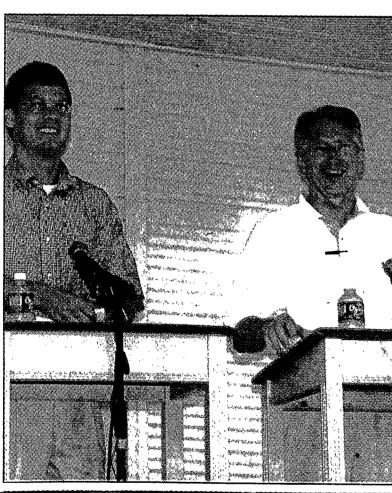

Through the camera lens of Randy Ponder

Republican congressman Chip Pickering, left, and democratic congressman Ronnie Shows participated in only the second debate ever held in the 113 year history of the Neshoba County Fair. It was a classic scene, pitting the younger Pickering against the seasoned veteran, in an open-sided, tin-roofed building under a threatening August sky. Several thousand people, bottom photo, crowded in and around to listen, cheer, jeer and to add their two-cents-worth. Each candidate told the audience what it wanted to hear and then took turns criticizing the other's voting records. The two incumbents are competing in the 3rd District race, after Mississippi lost one of its House seats following the last Census count.

The division of child support enforcement is generally perceived as a division that collects payments from fathers. However, the month of August is dedicated informing Mississippians that child support is much more than just collecting a check.

MDHS has taken proactive measures to ensure that the responsibility of supporting children rests with both parents. Children deserve psychological, medsupport.

Programs available through the division include the location of noncustodial parents; establishment of written agreement or through the hospital paternity program called "A Simple Acknowledgment of Paternity" (ASAP); obtaining and enforcing court orders for support; and the Mississippi Access and Visitation Program (MAV-

"Unlike Arkansas, whose CRDU has 88 personnel and processes payments (using a $1 million electronic scanner), our 20 dedicated employees must perform the same task for a similar number of caseloads done manually," continued Brooks. "This is just one of the many critical issues requiring the agency to be appropriated more funds."

During State Fiscal Year 2002, the division of child ical, physical, and financial support enforcement provided services to 429,930 children and collected more than $191 million in child support payments.

"In spite of budget shortpaternity via court order, falls and staff shortages, I'm proud to say that dedicated staff members have yielded an increase in collections from $178,346,835 in 2001 to $191,423,389 in 2002," said Division Director Alsee McDaniel.

"With the continued support and understanding of our constituents and by exploring the development of new initiatives, such as a which child support has legal advocacy program," said McDaniel, "MDHS remains dedicated to its mission of providing services to ensure that children receive financial and emotional support from both parents, and to empower families to become self-suffi-

THE PACE FILES BY STAN PACE

County Extension Agent We should be using this time to improve the soil in our gardens.

Many of the spring flowers and vegetables have reached the end of their productive periods. There are things we could plant now to take their place, but it sure is hot to be working outside.

August mornings are cool long enough to get a couple of hours work in before the sun drives us into the shade. Use one morning to cut down, pull up, or otherwise destroy the old plants.

Leave them where they fall and add as much organic matter as you can find.

Lawn clippings (yours and the neighbors), peach peels and fig stems from all that canning you are doing, pea and bean shells, watermelon and cantaloupe rinds, shrub trimmings, spent blooms, or anything else from plants can be thrown onto the soil.

Eggshells and coffee grounds from the kitchen would be good, but bones and fat just attract varmints. Next morning till in the results of yesterday's work.

The hot temperatures work in our favor since the rate these amendments turn into humus doubles for every 10 degrees warmer the soil is.

The bacteria and fungi who transform trash into" brown gold" do require moist soils, so be sure to water the soil if it needs it. Wait two or three weeks to plant fall crops.

Anything you plant now will have an exceptionally difficult establishment period. Soil temperatures are well over 100 degrees and most plants don't grow well when their roots are that Any shrub or tree planted now should be thickly mulched and well watered. Any flower or vegetable transplanted should also be thickly mulched.

Seeds planted now should be protected from the sun by a newspaper or thin mulch layer and need to be frequently watered.

Warm season lawns should be near their peak of summer's growth if adequate moisture and fertility have been provided. If your lawn is still listless and has not responded to the recent rains, you should conduct a checklist of possible prob-

Lacking formal art training, Scioneaux credits all his creativity to God, hence the title, "Works of Faith."

A recurring theme in Scioneaux's artwork through the years has been the cross and the fish, which also inspired this title. Combining creativity with skills and techniques working with metals has enabled him to produce the collection.

"I have been working in steel for a number of years, but have incorporated some recently developed bronze techniques into some of these pieces, creative talents are gifts Scioneaux said. "A very close friend has said that the names of the pieces are just as interesting and thought provoking as the pieces themselves."

Scioneaux attempted to illustrate these qualities in the collection, showing a seriousness about his faith in God and Jesus Christ,

Trio of ceramicists show why we should all be 'gone to pot'

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Quarter Moon Gallery is featuring new work by three talented local ceramists, Mark Buszkiewicz and Marshall and Carole Gottsegen.

The show kicks off August 10 during the 2nd Saturday Artwalk in Bay St. Louis. It will run through Sept. 10.

All three potters are already well known for established careers in other areas.

Buszkiewicz is a master woodworker, who has been a popular fixture among Coast homeowners for many years.

Dr. Marshall Gottsegen has forged a distinguished reputation during the decades he's been a practicing orthodontist in New Orleans, while his wife, Carole, was a clinical social worker.

Ceramics -- trio of artists

Yet all three have found that their common love for clay has become a delightful and important element in their lives.

Mark Buszkiewicz discovered his passion for pottery several years ago when he began taking lessons from Regan Carney, a ceramist and teacher in the Bay.

He found that many of the fine skills he had learned from years of working with wood also made him quickly adept at creating forms in clay.

"After working with the essential rigidity of wood for the past thirty years," Buszkiewicz said, "I was instantly attracted to the plasticity of clay. The way it immediately responds to the slightest touch of my hands while I'm at the wheel is almost magical."

Buszkiewicz uses his fondness for the pliable properties of clay to his great advantage. He has evolved a style that is uniquely his own with vessels that seem almost like organic living forms. This style persuades even casual viewers that the piece might move as soon as the back is turned.

"I want to create the feelkinetics," he said. "So I've developed a technique that begins with a basic form I've thrown on the wheel. Then using a variety of methods, I reform the shape."

"The pieces are inverted, stretched, torqued, partially dried, then manipulated again." He said, laughing, "It's a lot of fun.'

This shaping technique evolved after studying blown glass pieces. He incorporates images from trees, plants, undersea life into his work. His ultimate goal is to create useful yet tery lessons.

sculptural forms.

The Gottsegens are also drawn to functional work pottery that is practical as well as beautiful. Carole Gottsegen said that she and her husband were surprised when one day they realized that they'd become pottery collectors.

"Through the years, we ing of movement without had surrounded ourselves with all of these wonderful pieces from various potters around the country. We used these pieces on a daily basis, loving the way they brought a feeling of intimacy to our home. So when we began to make pottery ourselves, we naturally continued along the same vein."

> Carole Gottsegen was the first of the couple to try her hand at pottery. She fulfilled a life-long goal when she retired early from her career as a practicing therapist and began to take pot

Kramer of New Orleans introduced her to the basics. Eventually Carole went on to share a studio space in New Orleans with two other in form and execution artists - Nini Bodenheimer, and Joann Greenberg. "Marshall was drawn to the medium and decided that he wanted to learn more," Carole said. "He was just a natural. Then a few years ago when back problems began to limit my time throwing at the wheel, we began collaborating."

These collaborations combine the best of the couples abilities. Dr. Gottsegen throws the forms and his wife decorates them. She carves into the surface, then finishes the pieces by applying colorful underglazes, giving their completed works an elegant and distinctive look.

Her instructor, Debbie career of working with his hands that it was a natural transition to begin working with clay.

His passion for perfection serves him well in his new medium.

"The beauty of clay is that it gives one such freedom, such a wide range of artistic expression," he said. "Clay gives me a license to explore creatively, but it simultaneously challenges my technical side."

in collaborating on the pieces that he and his wife frequently rely on intuition. "We've been married 40 years," Gottsegen said.

"When I'm throwing a piece, I can almost anticipate how she's going to carve it. We don't actually plan out the pieces in advance. Instead, we've found that we have very admits that after a long common ideas of what the two of us like. It's become a very natural and satisfying process."

Carole Gottsegen agreed "When collaborating, we both get to focus on the parts of the work that fascinate us most. For me, it's decorative design. I've always been attracted to stylized motifs and patterns. Marshall is in love with the forms. It's a perfect marriage!"

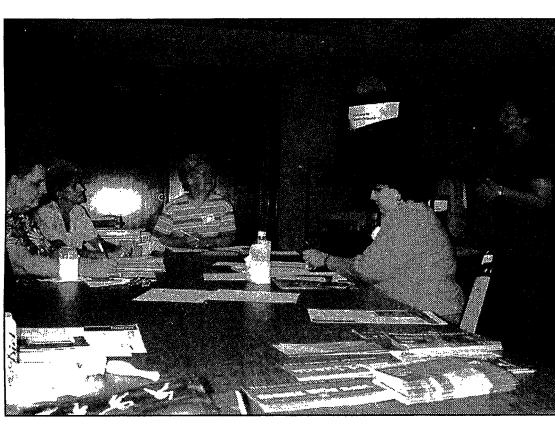

The artists' reception is open to the public and will Gottsegen explained that run from 5-8 p.m. August 10. All three artists will be on hand to discuss their work and explain techniques.

The Pointer Sisters to play at Casino Magic

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The versatile Pointer Sisters, who have such hits "Neutron Dance," "Jump," and "Slow Hand," will perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Friday, August 16, at 9 p.m. Tickets start at $29.95 and can be purchased at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or at any Ticketmaster location.

The legendary Pointer Sisters have never been easy to categorize. Starring in the dazzling production of the multi-award winning hit Broadway musical, "Ain't Misbehavin," is just one of many firsts they have experienced in their phenomenal 20-plus year career. Not content to rest on their past successes, the Pointer Sisters keep reaching for the stars.

They have burned up the country charts with "Chain of Fools," the smash duet with Clint Black, which went platinum and was nominated for Best Song Of The Year by the Country Music Association. Continuously in demand as international musical superstars, the Pointer Sisters headline a hectic together in · Oakland, worldwide concert schedule California, the girls, Ruth, began making their own "Fairytale." penned by Anita and Bonnie was a crossover country hit.

PRCC offers evening word processing course

THE SEA COAST ECHO

This fall, Pearl River Community College is offering an evening word processing course that focuses on the production of complex documents using advanced word processing first-semester course is part of the twoyear Business and Office and Related Technology program at PRCC that will lead students into fields such as secretarial, administrative assistants, or as medical secretaries.

Office personnel are expected to use personal computers to create spreadsheets, compose correspondence, manage databases, and create reports and documents via desktop publishing, and using digital graphics - all tasks previously handled by managers and other professionals.

In the midst of these dures. changes, however, their core responsibilities have remained much the same, although changed from manual to electronic - performing and coordinating an office's administrative activities, storing retrieving, and integrating information for dissemination to staff and clients.

Medical secretaries transcribe dictation, prepare correspondence, and assist physicians or medical scientists with reports, speeches, articles, and conference proceedings. They also record simple medical histories, arrange for patients to be hospitalized, and order supplies.

Most medical secretaries need to be familiar with insurance rules, billing earnings of all other secrepractices, anatomy, and hospital or laboratory proce- about $23,870 in 2000.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the national median annual earnings of executive secretaries and administrative assistants were $31,090 in 2000.

The middle 50 percent earned between $24,970 and $38,370 in 2000. The lowest 10 percent earned less than $20,350 and the highest 10 percent earned more than $46,250.

Medical secretaries earned a median annual salary of $23,430 in 2000. The middle 50 percent earned between $19,530 and $28,120. The lowest 10 percent earned less than $16,510 and the highest 10 percent earned more than $34,510. Median annual taries, excluding legal, were

If you would like information on the day and time of the class, phone 601-403-1241. Registration for night classes is Tuesday, Aug. 13, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Admissions Office in the Alexander Administration Building.

For more information on registration or ACT test dates, call the PRCC Office of Admissions at (601) 403-1214 or the Counseling Center at (601) 403-1250, or check out the PRCC Web site at www.prcc.edu.

Admission requirements include a completed PRCC application for admission, an official high school transcript showing date of graduation or an official GED score report, an official ACT score report, and official transcripts for any other college attended.

For the next year, however, the Mississippi State professor of electrical and computer engineering also will lend his extensive expertise to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

King, director of the university's Computational Geospatial Technologies Center and chief engineer for the Remote Sensing Technologies Center, will serve as NASA's chief technologist for earth science applications.

"NASA was looking for someone with a broad overview of remote sensing to help focus its activities in areas that are important to the nation's economy and security," King said.

"Finding practical applications for the emerging technology are something we've been doing at Mississippi State for several years."

Remote sensing uses satellites or airplanes to collect images that reveal features not apparent to the naked eye. Uses for the data from the images include forest mapping, pollution detection, crop analysis, and transportation corridor planning.

MSU interim president Charles Lee said King's assignment will be beneficial to both the university and NASA.

"Dr. King's selection for this important role recognizes MSU's remote sensing expertise," Lee said. "His interaction with NASA personnel and others during the next year also will help build important relationships for the state and the university."
